"Chiropractic for severe neck and shoulder pain"

"My neck had been sore for years but I lived with it. Then one day I suddenly had severe pain in my neck and right shoulder accompanied by numbness and weakness in my arm. X-rays showed some degeneration in the cervical spine area. My condition has improved considerably in the last few months of chiropractic therapy and I'm hoping continued treatment will help halt any further spinal deterioration as I age. I even feel lucky in a way that the injury has in fact alerted me to this condition. I also am thankful that I found a therapy that treats the problem instead of masking it with pain killers."
