Veterinary Orthopedic Manipulation (VOM) aka "Animal Adjusting"
Veterinary Affiliation

Dr. Stephen Nedd is a Certified Veterinary Chiropractitioner (C.V.C.P.) accredited by the International Association of Veterinary Chiropractitioners (I.A.V.C.P). The V.O.M. technology is inherently non-invasive and safe. To date no animal has been injured with this method of treatment. V.O.M. in and of itself is not a chiropractic technique, but would be grouped in this fashion. It is more specifically classified in the state of Florida as "Animal Adjusting." Practitioners who are not Licensed Veterinarians are classified as Veterinary Technicians in the state of Florida. The animal owner has been advised as to other treatment regimens such as traditional veterinary medicine and surgery, and has been encouraged to seek a second professional opinion, or has already done so.

Non-veterinary C.V.C.P.'s must have a verbal or written affiliation with a Licensed Florida Veterinarian. This constitutes a written affiliation statement acknowledging that I,
