

OVERVIEW OF THE NERVE SCAN PROCEDURES

As you may know, the body has a natural, inborn ability to heal itself. This ability is called Innate Intelligence. This information is constantly flowing through the Nerve System as electrical impulses to every tissue and organ. The Nerve System controls all aspects of the human experience. Every cell relies upon the uninterrupted flow of these mental impulses. Depending on this flow, we are either moving towards health or away from it. As more of the signals are impeded, the faster the tissue deteriorates. The sophisticated scanning equipment we use is designed to measure this flow.

An EMG (electromyography) Scan is done to measure the body's response to spinal misalignments, subluxations. It measures the structural patterns that you have adopted over the years. As we adjust the spine and remove pressure on the nerves, these patterns will change. The EMG measures the signal of the nerve impulse to the muscle. This allows us, as chiropractors, to objectively chart your progress and demonstrate that your body is improving through the elimination of nerve interference.

The other test, which this technology offers, is called Thermal Scanning. The thermal scanners are actually infrared cameras that measure the autonomic nerve signals controlling and coordinate the organs, and regulating inflammation. If this signal is interfered with, there will be a gradual deterioration of function of the target tissue.

Symptoms, such as headaches, back pain, allergies, ulcers and others, only occur after tissues have undergone deterioration. The greatest benefit of the technology we utilize is that we can detect nerve interference early, without having to base your care on symptoms. Therefore your care is based on prevention and wellness instead of sickness and crisis!

Interpretation of the Scans:

There are four colors that indicate the amount of change in nerve flow.

BLACK	VERY SEVERE change
RED:	SEVERE change
BLUE:	MODERATE change
GREEN:	MILD change
WHITE:	NORMAL range

Our goal is to remove the interference so that body can adapt towards the normal range.

Healing is a process that takes time. The old, tissues have to be replaced by newer, healthier ones. The scans that we use are like the EKG's in a medical doctor's office. For example, when the heart is free from nerve interference a normal signal pattern can be measured. In our office, we seek to measure the signal from your entire body by collecting data from your nerve system. The information we gather will allow us to become partners with you in restoring your health. You deserve to live a life free of nerve interference. Live life to the fullest - Discover Chiropractic!
