Autoimmune and Repair

The immune system identifies healthy tissue from foreign invasion by using signaling proteins, hormones, and the nervous system.

An over reactive immune system will begin attacking our body. This happens from An overload on the immune system in addition to chemicals and toxic metals we are exposed to. This overload on the immune system leads to a hyper reactive state, thus our cells begin attacking our bodies.

Repair of the immune system requires that any reactive allergic items are removed from the diet and the body. This requires testing that will determine what is causing the white blood cells to be over reactive. As the overall immune system burden is reduced the body will have a chance to repair itself.

Once the immune reactive items are identified we can then focus on diet and detoxification to restore a normal immune system response.

LRA Test by Elisa/ACT

The delayed reaction response (LRA - Lymphocyte Response Assay Test) by ELISA/ACT Biotechnologies is the most accurate and tests over 400 items including additives, chemicals, colorings, foods, molds, preservatives, and toxic metals.

The Goal is to have a normally functioning immune system.
