

Light Touch Taps Houston Area State-Of-The-Art Chiropractic Healing

By Jackie St.Cyr, D.C.

A Zen Master informed his students that he was going to meditate for three days after which time he would return from seclusion to do something which would change the entire Universe. After three days, he called his students together. He sat silently before them. Reaching out his hand, he carefully moved a vase beside him 1/8 of an inch. That was all! His students were confused. "By moving this vase just this small distance I have altered its relationship with the entire Universe!" The most minute movement can effect full internal and global healing.

This simple story illustrates the philosophy of the Network approach to wholeness. This powerful new healing science, Network Spinal Analysis, is unlike any other alternative or traditional healing modality.

Based upon contact points found along the sacrum, neck and base of the skull, Network Spinal Analysis (NSA) has evolved and developed over the past 25 years with thousands of participants worldwide. This new science assists the body's own ability to self-assess and self-correct.

Your Network Spinal Analysis Practitioner will first perform an analysis of your nervous system which includes postural patterning, spinal thermal pattern measurements and measurements of tension patterns in the musculature along the spine.

These studies are painless, non-invasive and very sensitive tests that allow you and your practitioner to understand the needs of your nervous system.

There are three levels of care and both an internal and external process can characterize each. In Level One the internal process is Connection and the external process is Release. In Level Two of Care the internal process is Transformation and the external process is Refinement. In Level Three of Care the internal process is Awakening and the external process is Expansion.

How does Network Care work? Network Spinal Analysis is a technique through which the practitioner applies light touch contacts (aka entrainment contacts), about the same as you would place on your closed eyelids, to the regions where the brain and spinal cord attach at areas called spinal gateways. Spontaneous breathing patterns arise as the respiratory wave moves through the spine, allowing the nervous system to reorganize itself and advance it's response to stress .

This is not breath work, psychotherapy or yoga. Network Spinal Analysis is unique and can stand as its own discipline or can be applied with various other vitalistic practices. The body always innately strives for health. When health is impaired due to physical, emotional, chemical or mental trauma, these healing mechanisms can become stuck.

Network Spinal Analysis entrainments allow for more effective redistribution of energy, improved coordination of the spinal system and enhancement of full spinal involvement in the flow of life-force.

Does Network Spinal Analysis treat symptoms such as headache and arthritis? Pain and symptoms serve as indicators that something is out of sync in your body. We recognize that often the area of complaint is the area that still has enough life force to complain about the other areas of the body that are sick or stuck. Symptom reduction then is not the purpose of Network Care; rather it is to assist and advance the body's self-correcting response and cause a change in patterns that no longer serve your system.

What is the difference between healing and curing? Healing is basically putting right the wrong relationships in our body & mind. Healing involves root concepts like wholeness and wellness, a sense of accomplishment and empowerment. Curing implies an attempt to eliminate the "bad" signs and symptoms of our disease, labeling and targeting the effects, not the cause of disease. Network Spinal Care empowers the body's own ability to heal.

Healing Myth #19: Healing often requires drastic measures.

Healing Magic: “I do not have to take drastic measures to heal. The energy that expressed itself as tension, pain, or disease symptoms is waiting for an opportunity to burst forth. I am ready to liberate this energy, to set it to work towards healing. I bless my symptoms, illness and wounds because they are stepping stones on my healing journey.”
